Public Information Meeting

October 28, 2025

PROJECT & SERVICE OVERVIEW

Project Overview

The RDEK took over services from the former Edgewater Improvement District in 2006, including the water system, recreation, and the office building that houses the post office. Over time, this building has deteriorated significantly. A structural assessment found serious safety concerns, and the RDEK Board has now decided to permanently close and decommission the building in the spring.

Recognizing the post office's importance as a central community hub, the RDEK staff and Electoral Area Director have been exploring both temporary and long-term solutions. With strong community support, constructing a new space for the post office has been identified as the preferred option.

The Service

New Building Proposal

We're looking at building and leasing a new space, which would require setting up a new service and borrowing money to fund it. The community will be asked to vote on this through an assent vote, so everyone can have a say on whether to support the new service and related costs.

Planned Use

Right now, the plan is to lease the space to Canada Post for a post office.

Future Flexibility

If Canada Post changes how it delivers rural mail and the post office isn't needed, the building could be used by the RDEK or leased to another group to benefit the community. The bylaw has been written to allow flexibility, for example the space could also be leased to a local business in the future if needed.

The Building

Proposed Building Location

The new building is proposed for the “Teacherage lot” at Selkirk Avenue and Vermillion Street. The site is RDEK owned and currently vacant.

Building Details

After consultation with the Edgewater Redevelopment Planning Committee, the Postmistress, and the Electoral Area Director, an 800 sq. ft. modular building was chosen as the most cost-effective, flexible, and efficient option with a shorter construction timeline.
